

Three Bears

By John Rickey, 2009

The bears had found me. The biggest bear began to growl. I froze in fear. I was in trouble now. I did not know if they were still mad at me. Fortunately there was a broom beside me. It gave me an idea.

The bears had found me. The biggest bear began to growl. I froze in fear. I was in trouble now. I did not know if they were still mad at me. Fortunately there was a broom beside me. It gave me an idea.

